IMPORTANT NOTICE: This document is a general customer-information guide prepared for the website. It is not an insurance policy contract, policy schedule, certificate of insurance, quotation, or guarantee of coverage. Product availability, premiums, benefits, exclusions, eligibility, underwriting and claims are subject to the applicable insurer's approved product documents and terms.

1. Purpose

This guide is intended to help customers understand the insurance services and website facilities offered by Life Protection Company Ltd. 3. Premiums and Age Groups

Premiums may vary according to the insurance product, age, coverage amount, policy term, occupation, lifestyle, medical information, tobacco use and other underwriting factors. Age bands displayed by the website calculator are for estimation only unless connected to an approved current rate table. No premium shown on the website should be treated as a binding quotation unless issued through an authorised quotation process.

4. Medical Conditions and Risk Information

Customers should provide complete and accurate information requested during proposal and underwriting. Relevant information may include diabetes, hypertension, cardiovascular conditions, respiratory conditions, kidney or liver conditions, previous diagnoses or treatment, tobacco use and other material medical or risk information. A medical condition does not automatically result in a fixed premium loading; the applicable insurer determines underwriting terms.

5. Coverage and Benefits

Coverage and benefits depend on the selected product and the issued policy. Customers should check the policy schedule, benefits, sum insured or sum assured, policy term, premium-paying term, applicable deductibles, waiting periods, exclusions, conditions and other provisions before relying on coverage.

6. Exclusions and Conditions

Every insurance policy may contain exclusions, conditions, limitations, waiting periods, deductibles and other restrictions. The official policy wording is the controlling document. This website guide does not replace those terms.

7. Claims

Customers should notify the applicable insurer and follow the claim procedure stated in the policy. Supporting documents may be required. Claim admissibility and settlement are determined under the applicable policy terms and the insurer's claims process.

8. Online Premium Payment

Customers may use the website's payment facility only through an authorised payment gateway. Customers should verify the policy number, customer details and amount before payment. Payment confirmation does not by itself amend or create insurance coverage; policy status is subject to the applicable insurer's confirmation and records.

9. Chat Assistance

The website chat assistant provides general guidance, navigation and customer-support information. It should not be treated as a binding underwriting decision, policy interpretation, medical opinion, claim decision or guarantee of coverage.

10. Customer Support

Life Protection Company Ltd. can be contacted at 9059056219 or mrajeshkhanna9@gmail.com. Address: Suncity, Bandlaguda, Opposite Pantaloons, 500091.

Before purchasing a product, customers should review the applicable official product and policy documents, including benefits, exclusions, premiums, terms, conditions, claim procedure and any customer information sheet. IRDAI's published life-insurance guidance specifically directs customers to review the policy document and provides a customer-information-sheet structure. ■cite■turn0search12■turn0search13■
